We need a representative who has the courage and independence to hold the Bush Administration accountable and take our country in a new direction.

The daughter of an Air Force veteran and public school teacher, Darcy Burner grew up in small towns attending public schools. Like many families today, her parents struggled to pay bills while raising their children. Darcy worked hard, put herself through college and went on to a successful business career at Microsoft. Married to a veteran and raising a young son, Darcy believes Congress is out of touch and the special interests have too much power. Darcy Burner will fight for us.

Holding the President accountable on Iraq. When Darcy's brother was sent to Iraq with the 101st Airborne, she shared the pride and fears of many military families. She knows that we have to hold the Bush Administration accountable by demanding they develop specific benchmarks for bringing our troops home.

Supporting our troops and veterans. Darcy will fight to make sure veterans get the benefits they've been promised and that our National Guard gets the healthcare they deserve.

Standing up to big oil companies. Darcy supports rolling back the $14 billion in tax breaks this Congress gave to big oil and wants to move our country toward real energy independence.

Protecting our retirement. Darcy will work to strengthen the Social Security system and fight against risky privatization schemes.

Improving education. Darcy supports funding early childhood education, smaller class sizes, and making college more affordable for working families.

Join Senator Patty Murray, Governor Christine Gregoire, Congressman Norm Dicks, the Sierra Club, NARAL Pro-Choice Washington, American Federation of Teachers, Washington State Labor Council and thousands more in supporting Darcy Burner and moving our country in a new direction.
